ITS HERE! IT ARRIVED AT 8:30 LAST NIGHT

The "White Streak" of Course---What Else did You Suppose

MINNEAPOLIS TO BRAINERD—8½ HOURS

Its Here on the Ground so That Everybody can See and Examine It---So One Can Verify the Statements Made in Regard to This Far-Famed Machine. A Leader That Leads Them All---That has More Victories Credited to It Than All Other Machines Combined

What do you know about this?
An automobile covering one hundred and fifty miles of Minnesota's cor-droy, clay and sand roads in eight hours and thirty minutes.

In covering this one hundred and fifty miles the driver encountered about thirty miles of the worse hills and swamps in the state. Some of the roads were in fine condition and it was possible to obtain a speed as high as forty miles an hour in spots.

However, the trip was not made with the anticipation of beating any time record from Minneapolis to Brainerd as the party were bent on enjoying the passing scenery and taking in the towns along the route.

Here is the party that came up in "The Dispatch," the model 10, Buick, the Mammoth Prize of the Dispatch's great voting contest for the ladies of the Northland: Driver, Mr. J. R.
Smith, of Smith Bros., local dealers for the Buick lines; Mr. and Mrs. C.
L. Burnett and Miss Flora Halstead.
The party left the Pence Auto Co's. garage, at the corner of First Avenue south and Eighth street, Minneapolis, at sharp 12 o'clock yesterday, arriving at the corner of the First National bank block, Brainerd, at precisely 8:30 last evening.

Now that's going some, isn't it, considering the fact that the party was endeavoring to break no speed records. The trip was made without a mishap of any kind. To use Mr.
Smith's words, "She run like a watch."

This is nothing. When you want a car you can always depend upon get a Buick. Its always there and it always delivers the goods. They are not in the repair shop when you want to make a trip. Reliability of its cars is the biggest asset the Buick Automobile company possesses. The Model 10 has been put to some of the severest tests known to the automobile world today. It has won more cross country events, more roadway events, more hill climbing events and more racing events than all the other cars in motordom put together.

Do not take our word for it. Come to the Dispatch office. We will prove it to you. We have the records---we have the dates and we will refer you to the secretary of the American Automobile Association and he will verify our statements.

Do the owners, agents or promoters of other similar-priced cars make this assertion? No. And why?
Because they cannot verify them.

From now on, "The Dispatch," Model 10, Buick, will be seen every day on the streets of Brainerd and if you want to examine the car and give it a close inspection, simply signify your desire to the driver and he will gladly show you the machine and explain its minutest detail to you.

THESE PRIZES ARE NOT FORSALE

The splendid prizes offered by The Brainerd Dispatch are not for sale for any amount of money. Votes alone will fetch them to you and to get votes it makes no difference to anybody where you live.

Persistent rumor has it that the Brainerd Dispatch's contest is simply a money making proposition and that whoever puts in the most money will win. That is what the wise ones say. We call them wise ones because they think they're springing something new. That's where they're wrong.

Success in any undertaking always is desirable, but the road to success is steep and it must be sought for.
The initial step to be taken to enable you to win your share of the $2500 worth of prizes is to enter your name upon the list of candidates. The second, to get out and work

THE CHANCES ARE EVEN

Some lady residing outside the city of Brainerd is more liable to win "The Dispatch" Model 10 Buick than those in Brainerd.

EVERY SUBSCRIPTION VERIFIED

Every subscription turned to the contest department of the Brainerd Dispatch on which votes are issued will be verified by a representative of the paper and an impartial investigation made of every one of them.
Any subscription that we have proof of that is not as represented the money on the same will be refunded to the candidate turning the same into the Dispatch office and the votes issued on said subscription will be recalled.

DO NOT GET WEARY

Keep going. Don't let that tired feeling come over you. The real race is only just beginning, so don't let yourself be "cut down" in the back stretch. Do not be a quitter or a sulkier. Neither of these is of any use to God or man. Be cheerful and plung along always hoping for the best.

Get rid of the idea that you are helplessly behind and are going to be left. If anyone tells you this, tell him he's another. He may mean to discourage you because he favors some one else, or he may be a chronic "bear" who hates to see any progress done successfully, so turn him down hard. Nobody has won anything as yet and all the contestants have an equal chance for a prize. A race is never won until it is finished and accidents may happen at any minute

BITTER FIGHT IN THE HOUSE

Will Be Waged Over the Postal Savings Bank Bill.

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD CAUCUS

Will Discuss the Subject at a Meeting to Be Held Next Wednesday—Leaders Believe They Are in Command of the Situation So Far as the Bank Measure Is Concerned and That It Will Be Passed.

Washington, May 20.—It is already apparent that a bitter fight is to be waged in the house over the postal savings bank bill. This measure will be made the subject of discussion at a caucus of house Republicans to be held Wednesday next. The leaders believe they are in command of the situation so far as the postal savings bank bill is concerned and that at the caucus a decision will be reached that will have the support of a sufficient number of house Republicans to insure the passage of the administrative measure.

The progressives appear to be divided on the bill. It also developed that some regulars do not take kindly to the compromise measure which recently secured the approval of the committee on postoffices and post-roads. The provision in controversy is that relating to the disposition of funds deposited in postal savings banks.

Representative Norris of Nebraska, the progressive who led the fight against the house rules in March, refused to sign the call for a caucus on the ground that the postal savings bank bill, as drawn, would permit of the diversion of practically all the funds of such institutions to Wall street.

The same objection was made by a regular at a meeting of the Illinois delegation called by Speaker Cannon to consider the measure. The regular referred to was Representative Snapp.

Objectionable to Norris.

The provision to which he and Representative Norris have made exception is contained in section 9 of the pending bill. It authorizes the creation of a reserve fund of 5 per cent, directs that 47½ per cent of postal funds shall be invested in government bonds or other securities of the United States and further provides that the remaining 47½ per cent shall remain in the communities where it originates or shall be withdrawn for investment in "bonds or other securities of the United States," when, "in his judgment, the interests of the United States require."

Representative Norris insists that no discretionary power shall be left with the president in the matter of funds to be retained in the communities in which they are deposited. Representative Snapp agrees with him.
They have given notice that unless the measure is so changed as to require that at least 47½ per cent of funds deposited in postal banks shall remain in local institutions that they will oppose the bill. Another insurgent, Representative Gronna of North Dakota, has jumped the reservation.
Although one of the potential progressive leaders, Representative Murdock of Kansas has announced that the pending bill meets with his approval.

MURDEROUS ATTACK MADE ON TWO WOMEN

Wife of Hotel Man and Her Sister Nearly Killed.

St. Paul, May 20.—Mrs. George T.
Harris, wife of the proprietor of the Fort Snelling hotel, and her sister, Mrs. Mary Brose, were the victims some time at night of a vicious, murderous attack, made presumably by a robber.

They were terribly beaten with some blunt instrument, supposed to be a monkey wrench, which was found later in the house.

Mrs. Harris has a fractured skull, but it is thought that both will live.
The women were literally beaten into insensibility. Mrs. Harris has three holes in her forehead, one of which, over the right frontal bone, caused the fracture of the skull. Her face and body were covered with wounds and blood. Mrs. Brose was in much the same condition.

Poses of soldiers, citizens and police are searching the woods for the assailant, and if he is found a lynching may follow.

The women were removed to Luther hospital.

They were alone in the house save for Mrs. Brose's three-year-old child.
An open window in the lower part of the house showed how entrance was effected.

Mrs. Harris recovered sufficiently about midnight to give the alarm, but neither could give any details of the affair, beyond saying "robbers" and that an effort had been made to "murder them."

Mr. Harris is in a sanitarium at Pine City.

MISS JANE ADDAMS PRESIDES

National Conference of Charities and Correction Opens.

St. Louis, May 20.—The thirty-seventh National Conference of Charities and Correction opened here with more than 1,000 registered delegates in attendance. It promises to be one of the largest in the history of the organization.

Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, and president of the conference, presided and delivered her annual address. Mayor Frederick H.
Kreismann welcomed the delegates on behalf of the city.

Governor Herbert S. Hadley performed a similar office on behalf of the state, and in his address congratulated the conference on the growth of the work and the success which attended the efforts of the leaders and members.

No Agreement Reached.

Washington, May 20.—Beginning the day with a fair prospect of an agreement between the "regular" Republicans and the Democrats, which would permit an early vote on the railroad bill, the senate concluded the day's session in as great uncertainty as it has been at any time on that and all other points.

CHILD FINDS THE MISSING PAPERS

Father Serving Term in Prison For Destroying Them.

Crookston, Minn., May 20.—Gerald, baby son of Patrick J. Fearon, twenty-five years old, former chief clerk of the United States land office at Crook-ston, now prisoner in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., found, while left by its mother to play, in the debris of the library drawer, misplaced government records, for the charged destruction of which its young father now occupies the barred and melancholy dungeon.

The papers were found on the eve of the departure of the grief stricken wife and her two little babies to the home of her husband's father, Daniel Fearon, stoned pioneer resident and respected citizen of St. Cloud, Minn.

Notwithstanding Fearon's protestations he was an innocent man he was sentenced May 5 by Judge Morris to eighteen months in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where he was taken after a heartrending parting from his wife and children at the depot in Fergus Falls.

Taft's Utterances Cheered.

Washington, May 20.—President Taft was the central figure at the day's session of the world's Sunday School association, now in convention here. At the mass meeting, held in Convention hall, which was surrounded by a crowd fully as large as the 6,000 within the big structure, he ac-knowledgeed the Bible school as a powerful force in the moral and educational uplift of the world. Again and again his utterances on this subject were cheered to the echo.

BODY RESTS BESIDE THAT OF HIS MOTHER

Edward VII. Buried at Windsor.

RULERS IN PROCESSION

Eight Monarchs Follow Bier of the Dead King.

ROOSEVELT ALSO IN THE LINE

Former President Represents the United States.

London, May 20.—With bowed head and solemn countenance all England watched today the taking of the body of its deceased sovereign to its last resting place at Windsor. Edward VII. rests now near his mother, Queen Victoria, and his father who died two score years ago. Today's ceremonious, mournful pageant, that marked the conveyance of the royal remains, was unsurpassed in recent history, rivaling and in some respects surpassing that which saw the laying away nine years ago of the body of the great queen.

From Westminster hall, where the body of the sovereign had lain in state three days, to Paddington station and thence through the pleasant Middlesex country to Windsor, the route of the funeral procession passed through rows of somberly clad Englishmen, attesting by their solemn demeanor the genuine sorrow they felt for the final passing of their king. It is a day of official mourning to be sure, formally ordered by the dignitaries of the realm, but it is also a day of genuine, heartfelt sorrow among the populace.
In that respect it resembles more the February day of nine years ago when the last scene in the long drama of the life of Victoria, the good, was acted than those earlier days, of unhappy memory for England, when the people rejoiced almost openly over the death of some particularly scapegrace royalty. As Victoria was mourned, so is her son. The twenty miles from London to Windsor seemed to give forth an almost audible sigh as the train conveying Edward's body moved slowly to its destination.

Services Throughout Kingdom.

Throughout the kingdom today solemn requiem services were held for the king. Not alone in the established church, of which he was the titular head, but in the Roman Catholic sanctuaries and in the Jewish synagogues as well as in the churches of all shades of Protestant belief, crowds of worshippers paid religious respect to the sovereign's memory. It was the touching final tribute of the nation to the ruler who numbered Jew and gentile, Catholic and Protestant, among his personal friends. In virtually every church in the United Kingdom the services were held. The mourning of the nation is manifest not alone in the bands of crape that drape the sleeves of the people and in the solemn drapery of their houses, but also in their hearts.

The funeral procession in London was imposing and impressive in its size and solemnity. No less than seven ruling monarchs, besides King George, followed the bier of Britain's king, and other men, great, but uncrowned, shared with them the respectful attention of the populace.

Much of the attention was centered upon Theodore Roosevelt, special ambassador from the United States. . .
The majestic figure of Emperor William of Germany, showing in his stern face the tokens of recent and deep grief for the death of his uncle: the pathetically young King Manuel of Portugal, mourning the loss of the man who was to him more than to any other a wise counselor and friend; Alfonso of Spain; Albert, king of the Belgians, recalling to the people the recent death of his uncle and predecessor; Frederick of Denmark and George of Greece, brothers-in-law of the late monarch, and King Haakon of Norway, but recently ascended to the throne with the advice of his father-in-law, the late King Edward—all took part in the funeral cortege of the man who was greatest of them all in his lifetime. With them were Archduke Francis Ferdinand, the heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary; the Duke of Aosta, cousin to Italy's king; Grand Duke Michael, brother of the czar and

SCENE AT ROYAL FUNERAL IN LONDON.

cousin of the new King of England, and representatives of every minor king in Europe as well as men representing the republics of France and Switzerland. A figure that attracted much attention was Prince Fushimi, representative of the mikado, King Edward's ally. Probably never before in the history of Europe—certainly not since the funeral of Queen Victoria—have so many distinguished men, titled and untitled, been gathered together in one place. Many of them attended Queen Victoria's funeral.

The monarchs who attended the funeral rode on horseback behind the gun carriage which bore the remains of King Edward through the streets of London. They rode for the most part with bowed heads, giving little or no notice to the attention of the great throngs gathered to see them pass.
Even their horses, pacing slowly and solemnly behind the casket, wore the insignia of mourning and seemed to feel that they were taking part in a solemn, mournful ceremony. The route of the funeral procession was crowded with Londoners and visitors from the provinces, many of whom had stood for hours waiting for the procession.
Shrewd proprietors of windows and places of vantage on the route had not permitted their public grief to interfere with their private gain, and seats from which the procession could be viewed commanded good prices. For some of them as much as 20 guineas had been paid, it was said.

Following the kings and princes on horseback came their female relatives in closed carriages. In the leading carriage was the bereaved queen mother with her unmarried daughter, Princess Victoria. The sight of the widowed queen's carriage, moving slowly in the procession, aroused the keenest sympathies of the loyal, silent crowd, and the silence was broken many times by the sobbing of the more emotional women members of the throng. The heart of England went out to Alexandra today, and it is reported that she has expressed her sense of the grate-tude for the many signs of deep sympathy which she has received.

Great Military Ceremony.

The funeral was an imposing military ceremony, carried out with the strictest regard for all the minute details of military rule and tradition.

The duke of Norfolk, his grace the Duke of Devonshire, was theoretically in charge, in accordance with the prerogative that invests him with command over all occasions of solemnity or splendor affecting the royal house, but the actual arrangements were put in the hands of the military authorities, with the duke's approval and advice. Troops lined the route of the procession, paying due honors to the body of the late commander in chief of the forces as it passed. Detachments of soldiers and sailors, thousands in number, accompanied the body from Westminster hall to Paddington station, and a guard of honor watched the oak coffin, made from the wood of splendid Windsor trees, before and after its disposition on board the funera-lly draped mourning train, on which the royalties and other high digni-taries also took passage for Windsor.

Throughout the mourning draperies one note of compliance with the wishes of the dead king was manifest. He detested deep black mourning of the usual sort, and in accordance with his wishes it was relieved today with a note of violet.

Last Services at Windsor.

Before the taking of the body from Westminster hall for removal to Windsor services were held in the hall, attended by the royalties and high dignitaries of the realm. The funeral services in St. George's chapel, the final resting place of the remains before their interment, were longer. The chapel is too small to accommodate all who attended the body from London to Westminster and many had to remain outside. The carved stalls of the ancient and magnificent sanctuary had been removed to give place to long timber seats.

The arrival of the funeral train at Windsor was announced by the firing of minute guns. The roadway from the railroad station to St.

George's chapel was lined with soldiers, who presented arms as the body of the king passed on its way to the chapel. With solemn dirges the procession followed by the officials whose hereditary and personal right it is to attend at the very last honors to be paid to a deceased British sovereign. There ing, the lord chamberlain and the lord

The last touch of medievalism came when Sir Alfred Scott Scott-Gatty, as Garter king of arms and therefore chief heraldic officer of Great Britain, under the earl marshal, announced in solemn, ringing tones that the last earthly scene dealing with "this most excellent majesty, Edward VII., by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the seas king, defender of the faith, emperor of India," was closed.

Papke Knocks Out Thomas.

San Francisco, May 20.—Billy Papke knocked Joe Thomas out in the sixteenth round of a fierce fight. From the eleventh until the closing round Thomas looked like a winner, but in the sixteenth Papke went after his man like a tiger and knocked him out.

Celebration Ended.

St. Paul, May 20.—With a reception, held by the six newly consecrated bishops of the province of St. Paul, which was attended by 6,000 people, the consecration celebration of the Roman Catholic church at the St. Paul seminary came to a close.

A Wild Bee's Home.

A wild bee's home, as we all know, serves the purpose of a storehouse as well as of a place for the young to grow and develop. The entrance used by the bees is often very small, but it always leads into a large room. The way for their honey and brood cells is the only thing in the least like furniture which they require. The firmer and more bare the walls and floor the better for them.—St. Nicholas.

HOW CHRISTIAN OPSAHL DIED Detailed Account of the Fatal Accident as Told by The Spooners News

The following account of the death of Christian Opsahl, formerly of this city, will be of interest to our readers:

"A sad and almost lamentable accident occurred in the Shevlin-Mathieu Lbr. Co.'s, saw mill, last Monday morning, resulting in the death of Christian Opsahl, an employee of the company, who since the commencement of operations, this season, has been engaged in the capacity of millwright. There having been no eye witness to the sad occurrence it is not definitely known how the unfortunate young man came to his sudden death, but from the position in which he was shortly after discovered it is concluded that the accident resulted in consequence of a misstep while endeavoring to cross a moving belt. From indications apparent Mr. Opsahl was in the act of oiling up some gearing in absence of the regular oiler, and which necessitated his walking on a beam, about six feet from the floor, across which extended a large belt, driven from off a large pully upon a smaller one at a very high rate of speed. The upper and lower portion of the belt, at the point of crossing the beams are about three feet apart and it is presumed that he intended stepping thru this space when by some mishap he was caught on the lower portion and hurled headlong against the smaller pully. The impact must have been with terrific force as upon final examination at the hospital it was found that his skull was deeply caved in and fractured bones being forced into the brain. When discovered a few moments after the accident, he still showed signs of life, yet was unconscious, thus was at once hastened to the Spooner hospital where immediate preparations were made for such aid as should prove necessary. The accident occurred shortly after 7 o'clock and death ensued about two hours later while lying on the operation table and undergoing an operation.

From the nature of the injury it is evident that he was wholly oblivious of what had befallen him, not having regained consciousness during the whole period.

The death of Mr. Opsahl has cast a gloom over the entire community, particularly owing to the social standing which he has enjoyed during his entire residence here. He had many fast friends both among his co-laborers as well as in the community at large among all whom his untimely end is deeply felt and mourned.

"Surviving him are his parents living in Norway, and a brother and sister, living at Brainerd, Minn., namely Anton M. Opsahl and Miss Mary Opsahl; also Jens Opsahl, of North Dakota.

"He was born Sept. 7th, 1877 at Ring Riga, Norway, and came to America about eight years ago residing the major time at Brainerd.

FOURNIER TRIAL NOW IN PROGRESS

Twelve Good Men and True Have Been Secured to Try Defendant

OPENING ADDRESS IS MASTERFUL

The Taking of Testimony Began Thursday—State Springs a Surprise

Aitkin, May 20—Realizing that the result of the present trial against Paul result of the present trial against Paul of Aagot Dahl, will either place Fournier before Judge Stanton for sentence to be hanged or imprisoned for life or will give the little Frenchman his permanent liberty, Attorney Chester McKusick, for the state, and C. W. Scrutchin, for Fournier, are making the fight of their lives to win a favorable verdict, and each is leaving nothing undone that can possibly have any bearing on their respective causes.

The trying of the forty-six men who were examined before the jury of twelve was secured resulted in some exceedingly sharp questioning, the state being determined to secure no man on the jury who had any conscientious scruples relative to the possible infliction of the death penalty should a verdict of guilty be secured from the introduction of circumstantial evidence and defendant's counsel being equally set on having as few as possible Scandinavians on the jury or men who would not state that in case of a reasonable doubt they would give the defendant the benefit of the doubt. Consequently, a jury has been secured to try the case which is apparently satisfactory to both sides of the case.

In opening the case for the state, Mr. McKusick made a very able presentation of the alleged facts in the case and what the state would attempt to prove by a strong chain of circumstantial evidence and admission alleged to have been made by the defendant to witnesses who would swear that he (Fournier) had said he had killed the Dahls. Mr. McKusick outlined the manner in which N. O. Dahl, of Crookston, had gone into the country near Quiring, in 1901, and had taken up a claim, afterwards sending for his daughter Aagot to come and live with him and take up a claim, in the hope that life in the outdoors among health-laden pine atmosphere would benefit her health, the young lady being fragile and in poor physical condition, weighing in the neighborhood of 90 or 100 pounds.

Mr. Dahl proved up on his claim, said Mr. McKusick and sold the timber thereon, having his daughter take a claim near his and their cabins being near together. Every neighbor in that vicinity were familiar with the forms of old man Dahl and his daughter, and little anyone thought harm would befall them. In January, 1904, Mr. Dahl made a trip to Crookston and then it became noised about Quiring country that he had sold his timber and realized a large sum. In the latter part of February Mr. Dahl and his daughter were taken to their cabins again. They wrote a few letters to their relatives in Crookston, and then the postmaster at Quiring wrote the Crookston relatives that the Dahls had not called for their mail for many days, and fears were entertained that they had disappeared.

Mr. McKusick told of the futile search of O. C. Rood and C. O. Strander, sons-in-law of Mr. Dahl, and how a large reward was finally offered for the finding of the bodies of the Dahls. "And then it was that Caldwell, one of the witnesses for the state in this case speedily found the bodies and shared the reward with Owen French. I have no excuse to offer for the action of Caldwell. He and Paul Fournier have always been bitter enemies; and it is altogether likely that Caldwell suspicioned Fournier and Wesley of having killed the Dahls and by watching them saw where they concealed the body of N. O. Dahl, under the saved off end of a balsam tree, which had been allowed to set back in place and effectually hide the body beneath." This was in July, 1904. The body of Miss Dahl was not discovered until in August, and then by the merest accident, by a man named Dure who was mowing hay and discovered the fully dressed skeleton of the frail girl, hid in a meadow a horrible testimonial of the cruelty of murderers whose lust for money caused them to commit one of the most vicious, outrageous, unpardonable crimes in the history of the state.

Mr. McKusick told the jury what he intended to prove and that the circumstantial evidence would be clinched by admissions made by the defendant himself that he had killed the Dahls. He would have witnesses tell of Fournier being "broke" about the time of the disappearance of the Dahls and having money in plenty on April 7th, the date on which the killing of old man Dahl and Aagot Dahl is alleged to have occurred. He would also show that a man named Kruger had loaned Fournier and Wesley his rifle and on returning to the Fournier cabin he had found a long white hair, such as Miss Dahl possessed, stuck in the back site of the gun, indicating that this weapon had been used with which to crush in the head of the innocent girl. He intended to show that Fournier took a long walk the day after the murder to borrow some money, when his credit was the best in that section, for the purpose of throwing off suspicion and giving the impression that he was "broke" when he had Dahl's money in his pocket. He had been seen at Caldwell's with about $70 on his person and at former trials had much difficulty in trying to show he had earned this money working on log drives.

"It is the theory of the state," said Mr. McKusick, "that Mr. Dahl and his daughter were enticed to go from the girl's cabin to the old man's and when once outside the murderer, who was following, shot Mr. Dahl, running to him and firing another bullet into his head from short range. Miss Dahl evidently tried to run away and was shot in the shoulder and severely wounded, and as her clothing was saturated with blood, she must have kept on running. The murderer followed and struck her down by crushing in her skull with the butt end of the gun.

"To crown all this, we have a statement given by Fournier which indicates that his conscience is bothering him. When he had been granted a new trial and a change of venue to Crow Wing county he became confidential with prisoners in the Beltrami county jail. He said that he saw the crime of killing the Dahls committed; that he was returning to his home on the night of April 9th, 1904, when he came to Caldwell's barn and saw a light. He went to the barn and saw old man Dahl's lifeless body lying on a manure pile. Standing near the body were Mrs. Caldwell and Miss Dahl and further away were Caldwell and Owen French. Fournier told his hearers that Miss Dahl attempted to run towards him but one of the men shot her and that she fell, waving her little white hand towards him. Fournier insisted on telling the story many times. There is no foundation in fact for this story. However, one feature is absolutely true, that about the little white hand. Fournier saw Aagot Dahl fall, all right, but the little white hand was not waved toward him for help but he saw that hand tremble and fall, and night after night that vision has been with him, and he has manufactured that story to ease his mind."

O. C. Rood and C. O. Strander were called and corroborated statements given by Mr. McKusick as to visiting Quiring and other matters relative to the Dahls.

Dr. Marcum of Bemidji, deputy coroner of Beltrami county, told of holding the inquest over the body of Aagot Dahl and as to the nature of wounds on the body.

Thomas Dure told of finding the body of the girl.

An hour before adjournment in the afternoon, the state sprung something of a surprise in calling George Moody, to the stand, and requesting that he, as official court reporter for the Fifteenth Judicial district, read the notes of the evidence given by Fournier at the trial held at Brainerd last winter, when Fournier was acquitted of the charge of murdering N. O. Dahl.

There was objection on the part of Mr. Scrutchin, but Judge Stanton ruled that the testimony as given at that trial by Fournier could be read to the jury. Mr. Moody was still reading at the evening adjournment. Mr. McKusick explained that his object in reading this evidence was to give to the jury several admissions that were made at the Brainerd trial which it would be impossible to get for this trial.

THE Y. M. C. A. REORGANIZED

Edward Crust is Elected President With a New Set of Officers and Directors

On May 10th the Y. M. C. A. of Brainerd was virtually reorganized. The first election was the election of a board of fourteen directors as follows:

Edward Crust, Thomas Blackburn, John Carlson, G. S. Swanson, Henry A. Lyddon, W. A. M. Johnston, J. F. Smart, John Leake, Wm. A. Hanna, Wm. W. Smythe, Dr. Joseph Nicholson, H. F. Michael, W. H. Gemmell and John A. Erickson.

This board proceeded to the election of officers and elected the following:

President—Edward Crust.
Vice president—John Carlson.
Secretary—Thomas Blackburn.
Treasurer—G. S. Swanson.

With Edward Crust as president the people of Brainerd should give the institution their undivided support and every possible encouragement.

The new general secretary E. L. Ludwig is a very energetic young man and with the assistance of the new officers and the board of directors will strive to put the institution on the plane of specializing more in the interests of railway men.

Leslie's Weekly in a recent number has the following to say of the Y. M. C. A. and its beneficial work, and the general support accorded it by the people of the United States:

"The people of America, be it said to their credit, give generously to all good causes when they know their gifts will be wisely spent. In the past ten years no other religious organization has received so much money as the Young Men's Christian Association. Millions have been raised for new buildings all over the land, and with no apparent strain. Its business-like administration of its vast resources, its energy in pushing its work—in the cities and through its railroad, army and navy branches—and its fine policy in following the armies in all recent wars, have created for it a world-wide enthusiasm.

At the last banquet of the international committee, Senator Root affirmed that they had made their way to working with men more than by talking to them, saying, "Come with us," not "Go do that." By their appeal to all classes of Christians, as well as to non-Christians, they have kept out of doctrinal theology, and by their activity in good works they have escaped cant in religion. All interested in saving boys and young men, rejoice in their world-wide success."

Get the Choice Oranges of Our 5,000 Groves

We pick, pack and ship 60% of the California Orange crop. These are of varying grades. The choicest selections are packed under the "Sunkist" label. To get the finest oranges you must insist on fruit that is wrapped in tissue paper with the word "Sunkist" printed thereon.

"Sunkist" Navel Oranges Are Seedless. They are delightfully sweet, juicy and fiberless. They are firm, thin skinned and deep tinted.

"Sunkist" oranges and lemons are picked by gloved hands, wrapped in "Sunkist" tissue paper, packed carefully so as to eliminate chances of becoming bruised or soft. No bruised fruit or fruit that falls to the ground is put in a "Sunkist" wrapper.

Look for "Sunkist" on the wrapper. Ask your dealer for oranges and lemons with "Sunkist" label on the tissue paper wrapper. Oranges and lemons without "Sunkist" wrappers are not "Sunkist" brand. Be sure you get oranges and lemons in their original "Sunkist" wrappers.

Free: Rogers' Orange Spoon

To make it doubly interesting for you to insist on "Sunkist" in the original wrappers—either oranges or lemons—we will give you a beautiful Rogers' Orange Spoon. Just send us twelve wrappers and six 2c stamps for postage, packing, etc., and we will send the spoon by return mail. Get a dozen "Sunkist" and send today for your first spoon. Address Hopeless.

"Your store is no good, sir! I asked for lace curtains last week, and I couldn't get 'em."
"Indeed?"
"Yes. And I asked for silk socks yesterday, and I couldn't get 'em."
"That's strange."
"And today I ask for credit and can't even get that. Is this a regular store, or what?"—Toledo Blade.

You Can Have Insured Clothes
THAT'S the kind we offer you in Clothcraft. With each Clothcraft garment goes an insurance policy in the form of a signed guarantee by the maker. And we stand back of it, too.

The guarantee means that your Clothcraft Suit must hold its style—that it is strictly pure wool—that the coat front won't break—that the collar and lapel won't sag or pucker. Think what this means to you.

Yet Clothcraft Clothes cost no more than ordinary clothes which never could stand such backing.
